Hello Cassandra,

It's been quite some time since I provided you with Dr. Levengood's phone #.

Have you had any luck in discussing/obtaining the crop circle seed specimens you were interested in?

If so, what are your thoughts and comments on Levengood's work?

Take care,

Sheldon Wernikoff

Don: As long as you label the cases "religious," that's fine, I have no argument with you. My problem is that you accuse the skeptics of demanding absolute concrete proof of reality, yet you seem to demand the same in the opposite direction. Thankfully, human thinking is not strictured by such binary logic. It is possible to come to a tentative conclusion based on the evidence amassed thus far. You yourself admit that the evidence tips the scale heavily toward the hoax side (at least, the litany of negative elements you recite sure sound like a preponderance of negative evidence). Surely intelligent men like Stevens must see this. Yet he continues to defend the case on scientific (note: not religious) grounds. This, coupled with the fact that he is now singing the praises of a cocktail waitress who claims to have been born on Venus, and is able to channel Venusians....need I go on?

Happy Holidays to you too!

Subject: JFK MYSTERY

Date: 27 Dec 91 19:15:51 GMT

From: EA RICHARDS

To: THE ALPHANS

Subj: CONSPIRACY/MYSTERY/DEATH JFK-I

Was anyone ever put on trial for the assassination of John F. Kennedy?

Remember that New Orleans District Attorney, Jim Garrison, who thought he had some answers to the JFK mystery? He indicted a man named Clay Shaw, whom Garrison accused of being involved in the killing along with a group of Castro-Cubans, and actually tried him in a New Orleans Parish court.

Clay Shaw was acquitted, but soon afterward was found dead in his home under circumstances which could only be construed as suspicious. Shaw was only one of the many individuals connected to this greatest of contemporary mystery/conspiracies surrounding the murder of JFK, whose death followed an unusual pattern.

Despite the many reports and books written about the Kennedy case, it would yet appear that the tragic events on and after that tragic day are still a knitting mills horror of loose ends, of timely coincidences too well placed to be coincidental. For example, the inexplicably high mortality rate for individuals unlucky enough to have been associated with the case. Oddity? Or design! For example:

John F. Kennedy, the president

Lee Harvey Oswald, the alleged killer of John Kennedy.

Jack Sangetti, A lounge owner who told friends Ruby would kill Oswald.

Betty Mooney MacDonald, Carousel Club Stripper, picked up by the Dallas Police, found hanged in her cell.

Darrel Garner, accused of wounding witness who saw officer Tippet shot.

Officer Tippet.

Hank Killiam, husband of stripper Wanda Killiam.

Gary Underhill, Life Magazine Editor, CIA Agent, who begged for protection because he said he knew who killed JFK, found shot in left temple, called suicide even though he was right-handed.

Bill Hunter, reporter, who had met with Ruby's lawyer a few hours after the killing, shot 'accidentally' by a policeman at the Long Beach, CA station.

Jim Koethe, killed by karate chop to throat, present at above meeting.

Mary Meyer, one of JFK'S girlfriends, shot while taking a walk in a D.C. park, her dairy confiscated and destroyed.

Frank Chavez, friend of Ruby's, killed by his own bodyguard.

Tom Howard, Ruby's lawyer, died of 'a mysterious heart attack.'

Rose Charami, Carousel stripper, who told her psychiatrist that JFK would be killed, 48 hours prior, who had often seen Oswald with Jack Ruby.

Dorothy Kilgallen, famous writer and TV personality, who spoke to Ruby for over a half-hour, afterwards saying she would 'break the JFK case wide open,' of an apparent overdose of alcohol and barbiturates.

William Whaley, who drove Oswald home, killed in auto crash.

Karen Carlin, Carousel Club entertainer, last to speak to Ruby before he killed Oswald, killed herself by gunshot to head.

Navy Lt. William Pitzer, photographer of JFK autopsy, gunshot to head.

Jack Ruby, supposedly of cancer.

David Ferrie, witness in Shaw trial, suspicious suicide.

Lladio Del Valle, Cuban, shot through heart.

Dr. Mary Sherman, shot.

Robert Kennedy, supposedly shot by Sirhan Sirhan (who only remembers hitting Kennedy in the shoulder. Guard E. Cesar had the same caliber pistol with him.

Clyde Johnson, who had attended parties with Ferrie, Ruby, and Oswald, shot to death near Greensburg, La.

Clay Shaw, as described previously.

Ex-Deputy Roger Craig, who said he had seen a man resembling Oswald leaving the assassination site, found shot to death, ruled a suicide.

Mob figures killed to halt possible revelations: Sam Giancana, Johnny Roselli, William Harvey, Sheffield Edward, Mickey Cohen.

George DeMorenschildt, sought by a house committee, shot, alleged suicide.

Carlos Prio Sacarras, ex-Pres. of Cuba, Ruby's casino partner, suicide.

Lou Staples, TV talk show host who interviewed the JFK investigators, found shot and killed in Oklahoma.

This particular list is up-to-date as of 1978, about 12 years ago. Since that time more people have vanished from the scene in numbers too high to be considered a normal attrition rate. Were the above mentioned people eliminated because of what they may or may not have known, or would they have died anyway in due course? Did Oswald really make a miraculous shot and kill Kennedy who was riding in a moving car, or was it someone else?

Comments?

I have a couple more around here with some more interesting connections, but this is the one you asked about. This message is from the ALPHA echo which regularly deals with any topic. It's available from 154/0 by request and I know a few systems around the country carry it. (but not many) EA Richards is the moderator and the home of the echo is Radio Free Milwaukee, AKA Paranet XI-Alpha. Alpha also has discussions on paranormal when it comes up, the USS Liberty, foods and beverage, BCCI, and anything else. It might be called a general echo, so nothing is off topic. Seems to lean towards politics and humor most often though. (they are the same right?)

Lost civilization found

Archeologists have discovered a lost civilization in the Amazon jungle that dates to about 6,000 B.C., The Independent newspaper reports. 'The discovery and the extraordinarily early date overturn the accepted early history of the Americas,' the London newspaper said last week. The evidence shows several large settlements on the Amazon's banks. Human skeletons at the site are 'robust, tall, compared to later Amerindian populations,' one scientist said.

As a matter of fact, Billy Meier came up with a photo of Semjase which was later identified as a photo from the German edition of the Sears catalog. The model was tracked down and she didn't know a beamship from a steamship.

Then there was the story about how Billy was taken into the future to photograph San Francisco after an earthquake. The photo was later identified as an artist's rendering on the subject which was published in Geo magazine. When Brit Elders was asked to comment on this she said: "Just because one photo was faked doesn't mean the entire case was faked."

As for Billy's films, there is a bit of irony involved here, especially with the comparison to the Ed Walters case. The film of the "UFO" flying around the tree was analyzed by a fellow who successfully demonstrated that the "UFO" was actually a pendulum on a string. He also calculated the exact length of the string and published his findings in the IUR back in about '88 or '89 in an article called "The Pendulum From The Pleaides". Curiously, the author of this article was none other than Bruce Maccabee, proponent of the Walters case. I believe he also wrote another article around that time contrasting the two cases (it may have been in the MUFON Journal) called something like: "Ed: Yes -- Billy:No".

BTW, thanks for posting that cookie recipe that appeared on the Internet. Now if I can just find someone to do the "dirty work" and really MAKE those damn things ... Happy New Year! -- John

If you think that the subject of UFOs and abductions hasn't penetrated fairly deeply into the public consciousness, think again: there was a Sunday "Calvin and Hobbes" strip that had Calvin reciting a poem...

While lying on my back to make an angel in the snow,
I saw a greenish craft appear--a giant UFO!

A strange, unearthly hum it made! It hovered overhead!
And aliens were moving 'round in viewports glowing red!

I tried to run for cover, but a hook that they had low'rd snagged me by my overcoat, and hoisted me aboard!

Even then, I tried to fight, and though they numbered many,
I poked them in their compound eyes, and pulled on their antennae!

It was no use! they dragged me to a platform, tied me up,
and wired to my cranium a fiendish suction cup!

They turned it on, and a current coursed across my cerebellum
Coaxing from my brain tissue the things I wouldn't tell 'em!

All the math I ever learned, the numbers and equations
Were mechanic'ly removed in this brain-draining operation!...

...My escape was an adventure (I won't tell you what I did);
Suffice to say, I cannot add--so ask some other kid.

Have a happy New Year, everyone. And don't let the Greys get you.

Hello Jim. Let us not overlook several recent murders, including Scott Rogo in L.A. and Tracy ??? and her brother in Las Vegas.

The Inslaw writer would be Daniel Casolaro, though I personally doubt very much that he died a suicide. His notes and manuscript disappeared from his motel room, and someone claiming to be a family member telephoned the local coroner and authorized embalming his body, thus practically eliminating any chance for detecting blood-borne toxins like Ricin or the CIA's infamous Shellfish toxin. The caller was not a family member. Lastly, the method of suicide would have been highly unusual for him -- plus bleeding to death in a hot bath is something that can be done when a person is unconscious, or even dead.

It's interesting to compare Dan Casolaro's "suicide" to Karen Silkwood's "car accident":

- * Sensitive, hemo-phobic writer slashes wrists in bathtub/manuscript, tapes & notes disappear
- * Ballsy, prize-winning gymkhana & time-trials race driver loses control of special race-stabilized car on empty road, crosses 4 lanes & divider, hits abutment/manuscript, photocopies & notes disappear.

You figure it out.

Dan Casolaro did not research UFO topics, however. Neither did Karen Silkwood.

Hi L.B., and Merry Christmas!

The most interesting one was the guy who "committed suicide by hurling himself through a reinforced display window in a Texas department store".

Check out Lifton's book Best Evidence for more info on the many deaths in the wake of the JFK murder. Lloyd's of London calculated, based on their actuarial data, that the odds against the number of deaths in the people involved in the 2-1/2 years following the murder were in excess of 100 Billion to One.

Thanks for the information on that book. The address seemed familiar and it is the same as "Inner Light" Publications, which I think is run by Tim Beckeley.

Did you read Jenny Randles' book (1988) called "Abductions"? It was republished in paperback, and retitled "Alien Abductions: They Mystery Solved." I haven't read it; wonder what she says. Do you know?

I've had that experience numerous times, always just upon waking (or perhaps I am startled awake by the voice). I think its related to hypnopompic hallucinating.

I talked with them today. They are open everyday of the year except Xmas day, Mon-Fri 10am - 5pm, Sat/Sun 10am-1pm. Reservation/appointment is necessary.

I was told it was a technical type of tour, about 3 hours, quite unsuitable for children or the elderly or those who are only casually interested. Also, no heat, no security, no facilities.

Thanks, (their number is 202-357-1400), take care.
John.
